

Constitutional Law I, Monday & Wednesday: 10 a.m. to 11:50 a.m., Room 121

The first class is Wednesday, August 22nd, 2007.

For the first day of class, please read the U.S. Constitution (pp. lv-lxxix), in Rotunda, MODERN CONSTITUTIONAL LAW (Thomson West, 8th ed. 2007). Then, we will read Chapters 1 & 2. Then we will read §5-1 of Chapter 5. After that, we will read Chapters 3 & 4. Then, we will read Chapter 6, §§ 6-1 & 6-2. All pages include the associated pages in the 2007 Supplement. Finally, we will return to Chapter 5 and decide what parts of that chapter we will read next. For each class, please read about 30 pages beyond where we finished in the previous class. If you do that, you will often be ahead of the class but never behind. Please note that, if there is an essay portion on the final examination, you will have the option of composing your essay on a computer.

N.B. A seating chart will be distributed in class. If you do not place yourself on the seating chart (which will be posted) you are not in the class, even if you have also registered in the class. I expect regular class attendance, and reserve the right to take class attendance and class participation into account in setting your final grade. If you are unprepared for a class, please give me a note and I will not call on you.
