

Proceedings of the China-India-US Workshop on Science, Technology and Innovation Policy

Appendix F - Acknowledgements

The China-India-US Workshop on Science, Technology and Innovation Policy was three years from concept to reality. During this period, many people in all three countries worked very hard to bring it to fruition. Some of the people and institutions are acknowledged below. Others, including the speakers, discussants, and rapporteurs, are noted prominently in the executive summary, the agenda, and the contents of these proceedings.

First, the Indo-US Science and Technology Forum generously supported the workshop financially. Significant support which enabled the workshop to be a tri-national event was also provided by the Chinese Academy of Sciences and the National Institute of Advanced Studies. The planning and organizational responsibilities were carried out by the National Institute of Advanced Studies and the George Mason University Science and Trade Policy Program.

Behind these institutions were many talented and industrious individuals. It would be impossible to mention all, but some of those whose names do not appear in the executive summary or on the agenda are especially deserving.

Ms. Gayathri Lokhande of the National Institute of Advanced Study, office assistant to Prof. Dilip Ahuja, the Indian co-chair for the workshop, provided an essential point of contact and was diligent in managing logistical arrangements. Mr. Srinivasa Aithal, also of NIAS, was responsible for handling financial matters. Captain V.A. Joseph, NIAS Office Manager, oversaw hospitality for the workshop, which included comfortable living quarters and splendid Indian cuisine.

Deep gratitude is due to all of the above. Without their superb contributions, the workshop would not have been what it was.

Bill Blanpied

Science and Trade Policy Program
George Mason University
October 2008