Syllabus 1.0 (to be supplemented in week two)

Class Schedule:

Class meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:00 to 9:15 p.m.

Contact Information and Availability:

I will post my contact information during the first class. Do not hesitate to contact me with any class-related questions, concerns or with requests to schedule a meeting. While I will not have set office hours, I am happy to meet with anyone before class, after class, or at the law school at another time, if needed. Please be mindful that my work schedule is often chaotic. It may take me several hours or even overnight to return a call or email, but I always return calls or emails.

Required Course Materials and Assignments:

Class Assignments:

The assignments for the first four classes are below. My goal is to keep the textbook reading assignments to 30-40 pages in length. You are responsible for all of the assigned material, but pay particular attention to the primary cases in each reading.

On occasion I may supplement the casebook with outside materials, which will be made available to you with sufficient advance notice and other disclaimers (i.e., not mandatory but for informational purposes only). The assignments may be adjusted from time to time given the pace of the course, and in consideration of certain subjects or topics that require more attention or less attention, as the case may be. Further information about the expectations for reading assignments will be provided during the first class.
Classroom Participation and Attendance:

Classroom participation is part of the course requirements. During the first two classes I will discuss class participation with the class and we will come up with an effective method to encourage class participation. Naturally, the purpose of class participation is never to cause embarrassment and I’ll never do that. However, class participation is beneficial to everyone and helps everyone “think like a lawyer.” Everyone should get in the habit of reciting facts, applying the facts to the law, and arriving at a plausible analysis. This is a skill you will continue to develop for the remainder of your career.

Class attendance is obviously important and will be monitored. If you fail to attend class with some frequency without sufficient explanation, you may be precluded from taking the final exam.

Internet, Phone and Recording Policies:

Use of the internet in any form is prohibited during class. Also, please “silent” or turn off your phones during class – “texting” or any other phone use is prohibited during class. Recording of the class in any way is prohibited.

Final Exam:

The exam will take place on December 16, 2016 at 6:00 p.m. The exam will be open book and open notebook (details to follow).
