Robert T. Miller

Overview and Learning Objectives:

This course provides an introductory treatment of the law of business associations, including agency, partnerships, corporations, and limited liability companies. It also includes a brief introduction to principles of accounting and corporate finance. Students completing this course should have an elementary understanding of the principles of law concerning agency, partnerships, corporations, and limited liability companies.

Course Requirements, Grades and Prerequisites:

The requirements for this course comprise informed and intelligent participation in classroom discussion and a three-hour, multiple-choice final examination. The examination will be open-book but without internet access. Your grade on the final examination may be adjusted upward or downward (but not more than three-tenths of a grade) to reflect the quality of your participation in class to determine your final grade for the course. Grading will be in accordance with applicable policies of the law school and the university. There are no prerequisites to this course.

Course Materials:

The required materials for this course comprise (a) Professor Sean Griffith's e-book, Corporations Teaching Materials (2025), and (b) certain supplemental materials that will be distributed during the course of the semester. All of these materials are available to you for free in electronic format on the CANVAS site for this course.

Not required but recommended, especially for those with no background in business or finance, are (a) William Klein et al., Business Organization and Finance: Legal and Economic Principles (11th ed. 2010), and (b) Burton G. Malkiel, A Random Walk Down Wall Street (13th ed. 2024). Both books are widely available, including on Amazon.

Reading Assignments:

Reading assignments for the semester appear below. In these assignments, the letter "G" refers to the Griffith e-book, and an Arabic numeral following that letter refers to a module in that e-book (e.g., "G-3" refers to Module 3 in the Griffith e-book). As noted above, for some classes there will be additional supplemental readings made available to you on CANVAS.
