THE MASTER OF LAWS (LLM) DEGREE IN GLOBAL ANTITRUST LAW AND ECONOMICS is designed to provide students with in-depth study of global antitrust issues, both established and developing, from the best antitrust law and economics faculty in the world, and to provide them with the tools they need for specialized careers in antitrust.

SUPREMELY LOCATED - WASHINGTON, D.C.
Our location just minutes from the heart of the nation’s capital is key to the successful study of antitrust policy and law. The Department of Justice Antitrust Division, the Federal Trade Commission, and the most influential firms in the area of antitrust are all located in Washington, D.C. This key location gives Scalia Law students access to the most relevant developments in antitrust law, policy, and practice.

THE WORLD’S BEST ANTITRUST FACULTY.
Scalia Law is home to the most knowledgeable and prestigious antitrust law faculty in the world. Scalia Law has the only faculty that includes leaders of both antitrust enforcement agencies: the Federal Trade Commission and the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice. Other notable faculty members include the co-author of the leading treatise on competition law and economics and several PhD economists in the area of industrial organization who contribute regularly to antitrust literature.

EXCEPTIONAL FACULTY

THE HONORABLE JOSHUA D. WRIGHT
University Professor
B.A., University of California, San Diego; J.D., University of California, Los Angeles; Ph.D., University of California, Los Angeles
3rd most-cited U.S. law professor focusing on antitrust scholarship and former commissioner, Federal Trade Commission.

THE HONORABLE DOUGLAS H. GINSBURG
Professor of Law; Program Director
Senior Judge, U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit; B.S., Cornell University; J.D., University of Chicago Law School
Former Chief Justice of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit; previously served as Assistant Attorney in charge of the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice.
THE LAW & ECONOMICS CENTER (LEC) AND THE GLOBAL ANTITRUST INSTITUTE (GAI)

Scalia Law students have unparalleled access to LEC and GAI activities, which include hosting academic conferences and roundtables, providing judicial education programs, and fostering research in the areas of antitrust law and economics.

The Law and Economics Center (LEC) is a nexus for academic research and education that focuses on the timely and relevant economic analysis of legal and public policy issues confronting policy makers worldwide. The vision of the LEC is that if policymakers understand economics, they will be more likely to make sound decisions that support the rule of law and the free enterprise system, thus advancing innovation, job creation, and economic growth.

The Global Antitrust Institute (GAI) was created to promote the application of sound economic analysis to competition enforcement around the world through:

- Economics Institutes: economic training program to foreign judges and competition enforcers, which are designed to provide economic foundations for competition analysis.

- Competition Advocacy Program: provide recommendations to foreign competition enforcers on draft laws and guidelines, which are designed to facilitate the adoption of economically sound competition policy.

- In 2016, the GAI trained 300+ judges and officials in China

Scalia Law School offers an outstanding legal education that invokes curiosity and passion in its students (Learn), trains students to critically evaluate prevailing orthodoxy and pursue new ideas (Challenge), and, ultimately, prepares graduates to distinguish themselves in their chosen fields (Lead).

Scalia Law School offers LLM students the opportunity to develop specialized expertise in one of three possible areas of law: Law & Economics; Global Antitrust Law & Economics; or Intellectual Property Law. Alternatively, for those LLM students who completed their legal education abroad and desire a strong foundation in the U.S. Legal system, Scalia Law offers a comprehensive U.S. Law program.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

DANIEL MUHEME
From Belgium
Class of 2017

"The LLM in Global Antitrust at the Antonin Scalia Law School provided me with the opportunity to interact on a daily basis with some of the world’s most renowned antitrust scholars and practitioners. Their passion and insights permeate the program and motivate students to engage in top-level class discussions and to participate in extra-curricular activities. The program’s value is also evident in its proximity to Washington, D.C., the heart of the antitrust world. The program’s high-level studies and networking opportunities together have opened doors for me that would otherwise remain closed. For example, I received the opportunity to do an internship at the Department of International Affairs of the Federal Trade Commission."
